

2012 Facilities Report

By Justin Daves

The college will soon be getting some space in the new Hunt Library which is due to open on Centennial Campus early next calendar year. Some of our current units including the Institute for NonProfits will be relocating from main campus over to this space. We will be sharing a suite with the Kenan Institute for Engineering, Technology, and Science (<http://kenaninstitute.org/start.html>). Additional space will be available for faculty to apply for -- additional details on that will be included in the report from Tom Birkland on research activities.
